

Federal Financial Analytics, Inc.

ECONOMIC EQUALITY ACTION PLANS ADVANCE

Topping #1 on key Amazon charts, Karen Petrou's new book has sparked an array of financial-policy actions to advance economic equality. FedFin is supporting several of these and stands ready to do more.

The analytics below are based on in-depth reports provided to FedFin clients.

To learn more, contact us at info@fedfin.com

Follow us on

Since its release on March 3, Engine of Inequality: The Fed and the Future of Wealth in America has gotten a terrific media and public response. Just a few recent reviews and interviews include those on the New York Times and Bloomberg along with podcasts such as Hidden Forces and those from Rob Blackwell and Lyric Hughes Hale. An excerpt may be found in the American Banker and Karen's book talks at Cato, on NPR, and with Barron's are among just a few you may also find helpful.

More to come, including a podcast next week with the legendary Jim Grant. However, that's far from all.

We are also getting lots of questions about its financial-policy fixes from key policy-makers. And, we're also hearing from both clients and non-clients hoping to make a constructive difference advancing sound, equitable monetary and regulatory policy. Karen's book was written nights and weekends with a great deal of research and logistical support from her great FedFin team. Now, we're turning that pro bono capacity into a support system for those hoping to take Karen's analysis into advocacy and action.

We are pleased to discuss whether FedFin can support your own analysis ahead of advocacy on a pro bono basis to determine if we may appropriately assist you and, if so, in what way. Follow the links below to learn more or file an inquiry.

To learn more about Karen Petrou's book, Engine of Inequality: The Fed and the Future of Wealth in America, click here

To read Karen Petrou's latest speech, click here

To read our latest in-depth non-proprietary report, click here

Karen Petrou's latest column can be found here

For more information on access to paywalled reports, please contact us at info@fedfin.com

Unsubscribe

Federal Financial Analytics, Inc.

2101 L Street, NW – Suite 300

Washington, DC 20037

Phone: 202.589.0880

www.fedfin.com

A proprietary think-tank for its clients, Federal Financial Analytics reviews critical federal and global policy developments in banking, insurance, asset management, and mortgage finance. We analyze strategic actions in great depth. Then, we advise clients on whether what they want can be made to work for them, within the policy environment and for the financial system. The firm's practice is a unique blend of strategic advice and policy analysis serving as a thought leadership resource for boards of directors and senior management seeking a forward looking assessment of risks, opportunities, governance and other matters critical to success.

© 2021. Federal Financial Analytics, Inc. All rights reserved.